GEORGIA TECH BASKETBALL 2013-14

Tech Begins Holiday Road Swing at Vanderbilt

Riding a three-game winning streak, Georgia Tech's basketball team now faces a stretch of four consecutive road games beginning with a visit to Vanderbilt for a 4 p.m. Eastern time contest Saturday at Memorial Gymnasium in Nashville, Tenn.

Fox Sports South will provide regional television coverage of the game throughout its 13-state reach. Radio coverage of the game will be provided by the Georgia Tech IMG Sports Network and can be heard in Atlanta on WYAY-FM (106.7). The Vanderbilt radio broadcast can be heard nationally on channel 85 on the Sirius and XM satellite radio networks. Fans can also watch online at ESPN3.

The Yellow Jackets (8-3) came off fall semester final exams with a 74-57 victory over neighboring Kennesaw State, extending to three games a winning streak that began with Tech's 67-64 win over Illinois on Dec. 3. All three wins in the streak have come at home, and Tech's visit to Vanderbilt will be its first on an opponent's home court since Nov. 15, when the Jackets won at Georgia.

In its third season under head coach Brian Gregory, Tech has returned four starters - center Daniel Miller, big forward Robert Carter, Jr., and wings Marcus Georges-Hunt and Chris Bolden - from a team that posted a 16-15 overall record last season and went 6-12 to tie for ninth place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Jackets are averaging 74.1 points per game and hitting 44.9 percent of their shots from the floor so far. Tech also has outrebounded each opponent by an average of 7.6 per game, has a plus-1.2 assist/turnover ratio and has improved vastly at the free throw line (71.0 pct.) over last year.

Vanderbilt (6-3), in its 15th season under head coach Kevin Stallings, has won its last two games, including a 58-56 win over Austin Peay Tuesday night. All three of the Commodores' losses have come away from home.

Following Saturday's game, Tech finishes out its December schedule with Sunday night game at Charlotte (7-2) on Dec. 29.

Fast Break Points

• The Vanderbilt game is the last of three against Southeastern Conference opponents on Georgia Tech's non-conference schedule, all of them away from home. The Yellow Jackets won at Georgia, 80-71, on Dec. 15 and lost to Mississippi, 77-67, on Nov. 29 in Brooklyn, N.Y. Tech is 366-398 all-time against current SEC teams.

• Tech plays its next four games on the road and does not play again at home until Jan. 11, when

Notre Dame tips off a stretch of three straight ACC games at McCamish Pavilion. The Jackets visit Charlotte on Dec. 29 to complete their non-conference schedule, then open ACC play at Maryland (Jan. 4) and Duke (Jan. 7).

• Tech has won its only game this season on an opponent's home court, at Georgia on Nov. 15. The Jackets are 0-2 on neutral courts. Tech is 7-1 at home this season, with the only loss coming to Dayton on Nov. 20.

• What team besides Ole Miss (North Carolina A&T, Mississippi Valley State and Dayton) has the most common opponents with Georgia Tech on its non-conference schedule? IPFW (Indiana University-Purdue University at Fort Wayne) of the Summit League, which is 9-4 this season. The Mastodons lost to Dayton by 1, lost to Illinois by 2, and defeated Kennesaw State by 10.

• Tech's three losses have come to teams with a combined record of 21-7 and RPI rankings of 25, 40 and 46 (CBS). Illinois had an RPI rank of 18 at the time of the Dec. 3 game and is currently No. 45.

Series vs. Vanderbilt

Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt are meeting for the 72nd time Saturday, the first of a two-game series in which the Commodores will return the trip next season. Vandy leads the series, which dates back to 1914, 38-33.

• Vanderbilt is Tech's third most-common opponent outside the Atlantic Coast Conference, behind Georgia (190 meetings) and Auburn (114). The teams met 14 times prior to the formation of the Southeastern Conference (Tech won nine), 52 times as SEC brethren (Vanderbilt won 31 of those) and five times since Tech left the conference (Tech leads 3-2 in those games).

• The teams engaged in a four-game series from the 2005-06 season through the 2008-09 season, each team winning twice, both times on its home court. The only other time the teams have met since Tech left the SEC was an 86-77 overtime victory at the Georgia Dome on Dec. 18, 1993, the only time both teams were ranked in the top 25 when they played.

• The last meeting was a 63-51 Tech victory Dec. 6, 2008 in Atlanta in which the Yellow Jackets got a team-high 18 points from current New York Knick Iman Shumpert. The rest of the Tech starting lineup in that game included four players currently playing professionally overseas - Gani Lawal, Zachery Peacock, Alade Aminu and Maurice Miller. Vandy captured a 92-79 win in Nashville in the last meeting at Memorial Gym in 2007.

• In Nashville, the Commodores have a 25-8 advantage over Tech, and a 13-1 record against the Yellow Jackets in 60-year-old Memorial Gymnasium. Tech's only win in the building occurred on Feb. 28, 1959, and Vandy has won the last seven meetings there. Tech was led in that 1959 victory by Terry Randall with 25 points, Bud Blemker with 20, and 16 points from sophomore and future All-American Roger Kaiser.

• Tech defeated Vanderbilt all three times the teams met in the SEC Tournament, including a 50-18 victory in 1938 which helped the Yellow Jackets win their only SEC title.

• Tech coach Brian Gregory faced Vanderbilt twice at head coach at Dayton, and the Commoeach half of the win over Illinois on Dec. 3.

Tech erased a nine-point deficit with a 19-7 streak to end the first half against Illinois to lead, 36-33, then erased a 12-point deficit with a 19-4 run over the final seven minutes to win the game, 67-64.

In the first half of its game against East Tennessee State, Tech put the game away with a 20-4 run to lead 44-23. With its Iron Five in the game at the end of the game, Tech was outscored 10-4 over the final five minutes of that game.

In the last outing against Kennesaw State, Tech closed the first half with a 17-2 spurt over the final 6:38 to lead 38-26. After the Owls chipped away and got within seven at the 4:14 mark, the Jackets finished by outscoring KSU, 15-5.

Noting the Yellow Jackets

• Four Georgia Tech players are averaging in double figures through the first 11 games. Sophomore wing Marcus Georges-Hunt (12.7 ppg), who led Tech in scoring as a freshman, has a slim lead over senior guard Trae Golden (12.6). Each player has scored in double digits in nine games. Sophomore forward Robert Carter, Jr. (10.6 ppg) moved into double digits after getting a career-high 21 against Illinois, and Daniel Miller stands at 10.1.

• Robert Carter, Jr., (9.8 rpg) leads the ACC in rebound average after grabbing 15 against Kennesaw State, while Daniel Miller (7.9) ranks third. Carter is tied for the ACC lead with four double-doubles. The last Yellow Jacket to lead the ACC in rebounding was Alvin Jones (10.4) in 2000-01.

• Carter, Jr., and Georges-Hunt became the first Tech teammates to each score 20 or more points in the same game (vs. Illinois) in two-plus seasons under head coach Brian Gregory.

• Tech has had five 20-point efforts in its first 11 games this season. The Jackets had only four all last season. The first came in the season's 16th game.

• Tech has placed four players in double digits in scoring in eight of 11 games. Oddly, Tech had no one in double figures against St. John's, yet nine of its 10 players scored in the game.

• Three Tech players are hitting more than 50 percent of their shots from the floor, led by Daniel Miller (63.4 pct.). Robert Carter, Jr., is at 51.1 percent, and Kammeon Holsey is at 50.9 percent.

• Tech has hit the 80-point mark three times already this season after reaching that figure only once last season and three times in all of 2011-12.

• Tech has averaged 15.7 assists per game (3.0 per game better than last season), and has assisted on 60.1 percent of its field goals. The Yellow Jackets recorded 26 assists (on 33 field goals) against East Tennessee State, a high for the team under Brian Gregory.

• Tech has a plus-1.2 assist/turnover ratio, and eight of the 10 players who have seen regular action are either even or on the positive side of that ratio.

• Tech has made 44.9 percent of its field goals, and has scored 588 of its 815 points (72.1 percent) either in the paint or at the foul line.

• Tech recorded season highs for three-point field goals made and attempted (10-for-23) against East Tennessee State, and hit 36.4 percent of its three-point field goal tries over the six-game stretch preceding exam week. Tech was just 2-for-11 Monday night against Kennesaw State.

• Solomon Poole leads Tech in three-pointers made (16), attempted (43) and accuracy (37.2 pct.), and Marcus Georges-Hunt has hit 34.5 percent of his tries from behind the arc.

• Tech has outrebounded each of its opponents this season, making it 49 times in 73 games under Gregory that the Yellow Jackets have outrebounded their opponent. The Jackets rank third in the ACC in both rebound average and fifth in rebound margin.

• Tech has shot better than 50 percent four times, and has done so 19 times under Brian Gregory.

• Tech has held six opponents under 40 percent (38.3 percent collectively), extending the total of opponents the Jackets have held under 40 percent to 32 under Gregory.

• Though Brian Gregory does not emphasize steals as a way to fuel transition, Tech's steal rate is up to 6.9 per game from 5.9 last year.

Free Throws Are Really Free

Georgia Tech has made a tremendous improvement in its free throw shooting this season, not only in getting to the line more often, but making a greater percentage than it has done in nearly 20 years.

The Yellow Jackets have shot 70 percent as a team over a full season only once in the last 17 seasons, and has not reached their current 71.0-percent rate since 1994-95, when Travis Best and James Forrest were seniors. Tech shot 63.5 percent from the stripe last year and 65.4 percent in its first season under Brian Gregory.

• Tech has attempted 23.5 free throws per game so far (compared to just 16.2 last season) and has scored an average of 16.7 points per game from the stripe (10.3 points per game last season).

• Tech has attempted more free throws than its opponent in nine of 11 games. Last year, that happened only 13 times all season, but Tech was 11-2 in those games.

• Tech is 7-2 this season when attempting more free throws than its opponent, and 25-10 when doing so under Brian Gregory.

• Tech's top five scorers - Trae Golden (54-of-70), Marcus Georges-Hunt (28-of-37), Daniel Miller (21-of-29), Robert Carter, Jr. (27-of-43) and Kam-meon Holsey (23-of-29) have combined to hit 73.6 percent of their free throw attempts.

• Trae Golden has been Tech's best at drawing fouls and getting to the line. He has shot 70 free throws in 11 games, a rate which would leave him with a total of 197 at the end of the regular season. Tech's leader last year had 89 attempts in 31 games, while Golden shot 162 free throws in 31 games at Tennessee. Robert Carter, Jr., is on a pace to attempt 121 free throws, and Georges-Hunt 104.

Offensive Efficiency Continues to Improve

Georgia Tech's shooting percentages last season were comparable to its 2011-12 totals, both overall and in conference games, but the Yellow Jackets' offense produced more shots from the floor, more three-point field goals, more free throws and more points.

Those trends, at least in the early going, appear to be continuing this season,

• Tech's scoring average in all games has risen from 60.2 in Brian Gregory's first season to 64.3 last season to 74.1 so far this season. Tech scored 4.2 more points per game in conference play last season (62.8 vs. 58.6) than it did in 2011-12. Tech's national ranking has improved from no. 313 in 2011-12 to No. 254 last season to No. 161 this week.

• Tech has attempted 58.3 field goals per game this season, compared to 57.8 per game last season and 52.9 in 2011-12.

• Tech has made its greatest strides so far this season in free throw shooting, both in getting to the line and in accuracy. The Jackets are averaging 16.7 points scored from the foul line this season and has hit 71 percent from the stripe, a drastic improvement from the 10.1 points per game and 64.4 percent accuracy Tech posted in the first two seasons under Gregory.

• Tech has improved its assist rate by three per game (15.7) over its first two seasons under Gregory (11.8), and has assisted on 60.1 percent of its made field goals this season compared to 50.6 the last two seasons. Tech's national ranking in this category has improved from No. 298 in Gregory's first season to No. 168 last year to No. 99 this week.

• Tech's turnover rate has improved from 14.4 per game in 2011-12 to 12.9 last season and has remained level at 13.0 this season. Likewise, Tech's assist/turnover ratio is +30 so far this season compared to -13 combined the last two seasons. The Jackets rank No. 85 nationally in assist/turnover ratio after finishing No. 155 last year and No. 300 in 2011-12.

• Tech has scored 80 points three times this season, after doing it just once last season and four times combined in its first two seasons under Gregory.

• Tech scored 70 or more points 11 times last season, compared to seven times in 2011-12. Tech has scored 70 more more points in seven of 11 games this season.

Boardwork Empire

One of the cornerstones of head coach Brian Gregory's philosophy is that everybody rebounds and Tech wins the rebounding battle every game. The Yellow Jackets have done so in every game this season so far, and Tech ranks third in the ACC currently in both rebound average and fifth in rebound margin (+7.6), and ranks 32nd nationally in rebound margin.

• Tech's current 11-game streak of out-rebounding opponents matches the longest the Yellow Jackets have had dating back to the 2000-01 season (11 games in 2005-06). Tech had another streak of 10 straight games in 2006-07.

• After getting outrebounded in its first three ACC games last season by an average of 9.3, Tech outrebounded 11 of the last 17 teams it played (one tie). In a late three-game stretch, Tech out-rebounded the No. 1 (Maryland), No. 2 (NC State) and No. 3 (Miami) teams in the ACC in rebound margin against league foes by an average of 4.0.

• Last season, Tech ranked fourth in the ACC and 97th in the nation in rebound margin (+2.8). In 2011-12, Tech ranked third in the ACC and 60th nationally in rebound margin (+3.5).

• Tech has outrebounded 49 of its 73 opponents under Gregory, with three ties, and 29 of its 36 ACC opponents.

• Tech has had a double-figure rebound game 18 times since the beginning of last season - Robert Carter, Jr. (nine times), Daniel Miller (eight) and Marcus Georges-Hunt (once).

• Tech is 29-20 when it has won the rebounding battle under Gregory, and is 6-18 when it has lost the rebounding battle.

Magna Carter

Big forward Robert Carter, Jr., has developed into a force on the boards and a dependable scorer inside and out for Georgia Tech this season. The 6-8 sophomore added strength and shed body fat over the off-season, has become a more trim and mobile presence inside, and is close to averaging a double-double through 11 games.

• Following his 15-point, 15-rebound performance Monday night against Kennesaw State, Carter, Jr., leads the Atlantic Coast Conference in rebound average at 9.8 per game while averaging 10.6 points per game. The KSU game was his fourth double-double of the season, tied for the most in the ACC, and seventh of his career. It also was his fifth double-digit rebound game this season.

• Additionally, the Thomasville, Ga., native has scored in double figures seven times this season, including each of the last three games in which he has averaged 15.9 points (16-of-26 FG, 13-of-17 FT) and 10.7 rebounds while recording six assists. He began that streak with a career-best 21 points in Tech's 67-64 victory over Illinois in which he scored seven of those points in the Yellow Jackets' 19-4 game-ending run.

• Carter, Jr.'s recent performances attracted the attention of ESPN analyst and former college coach Fran Fraschilla, who tweeted, "GT post Robert Carter is quietly becoming a double double machine. He has excellent hands and feel. Great player to build around."

Miller Time

Robert Carter, Jr.'s performances have taken nothing away from Daniel Miller's contributions in the post for Georgia Tech. Since taking over the Yellow Jacket reins, head coach Brian Gregory has counted on Miller for more than just his ever-present high basketball IQ, shot-blocking and passing skills. The third-year Tech coach asked his pivot-man for more scoring, rebounding and aggressiveness, and the 6-11 1/2 senior has responded, establishing himself as the key cog when Tech's inside-out offense is working well.

• The fifth-year senior is averaging career highs in scoring, rebounding and field goal percentage this season, and has made strides in every area each season of his career at Tech. He ranks third in the ACC in rebound average (7.9), fourth in blocked shots (1.82) and might lead the conference in field goal percentage if he met the league minimum of five field goals made per game (Miller averages four).

• Miller scored 16 points and grabbed eight rebounds Monday night against Kennesaw State while Carter, Jr., was getting his 15/15 double-double, and the Loganville, Ga., native scored the game-winning basket as part of a 9-point performance against Illinois.

• A member of the ACC's All-Defensive team last season, Miller has managed to play excellent defense and avoid foul trouble. He has fouled out only twice in his career and average 1.7 fouls per game the last two-plus seasons after committing 2.4 per game as a freshman.

• Miller was recently included among a list of the nation's 15 least appreciated players by Jon Rothstein of CBSSports.com, who wrote: "If there's a better post defender in the ACC, we'd like to see him. Miller regularly neutralizes the opponent's best interior scorer and has given Brian Gregory stability in the pivot as he attempts to rebuild the Yellow Jackets' program."

The Sixth Man Award

Georgia Tech's Kammeon Holsey would be a prime candidate for the the ACC's sixth man Award, which the conference will bestow for the first time at the end of this season.

The 6-8 1/2 forward has begun this season where he left off, averaging 7.4 points and 5.8 rebounds and hitting 51 percent of his field goal tries this year. His free throw shooting has improved remarkably from 61 percent last year to 81.5 percent this season.

After starting all 31 games for Tech as a sophomore, Holsey gave way to freshman Robert Carter, Jr., at the beginning of last season and came off the bench in every game. But the junior from Sparta, Ga., was among the Yellow Jackets' top four in scoring average all season, finishing third at 8.8 points a game while playing under 20 minutes a game.

Holsey's role was to give the Jackets a burst of energy in the frontcourt off the bench, and he did so from the very first game, when he scored a season-high 18 points on 7-of-8 shooting in just 18 minutes in Tech's season-opening win over Tulane. He matched that with 18 on 8-of-13 shooting with a season-high nine rebounds at North Carolina on Jan. 23.

He reached double digits 10 other times led Tech in scoring five times, and he converted 55.8 percent of his shots from the floor. He never played more than 25 minutes, and was Tech's first sub off the bench in every game but one.

Pure Golden

Another player who has picked up where he left off last year is transfer Trae Golden, who has given Georgia Tech exactly what it expected in terms of offense and experience at the guard position.

The 6-2 senior has scored in double figures in nine of 11 games and is just one-tenth of a point shy of the team scoring lead at 12.6 per game. Golden has come up big when the Jackets were in trouble, scoring five points and assisting on another field goal in the final four minutes as Tech finished off Kennesaw State with a 15-5 run Monday night. He also scored a game-high 18 points in Tech's win at Georgia, and a game-high 20 with seven assists against North Carolina A&T.

Golden, a Powder Springs, Ga., native who played at Tennessee his first three seasons, has put up numbers similar to those he posted for the Volunteers, hitting 77.1 percent of his free throw attempts while getting to the line more than six times per game, averaging 3.8 assists in addition to his dozen points per game.

Tech's Building Blocks

Georgia Tech's 2012-13 freshman class was expected to be a big part of the Yellow Jackets plans last season, and the group became even more prominent after ACC play began and has developed into the core of Tech's program as it builds under Brian Gregory.

high school class of 2012, have played significant minutes from their first game. Georges-Hunt and Carter, Jr., were in the starting lineup for the the season opener last year against Tulane, and Bolden made his first career start Jan. 17 at Duke.

They combined to score 43.4 percent of Tech's points overall and 46.5 percent in ACC games. They ranked 1-2-3 in scoring against the ACC and were separated by just eight points.

They also handled the ball well, Bolden, Carter, Jr., and Georges-Hunt combined for just 126 turnovers (combined 4.1 per game).

Class of 2013 guard Solomon Poole also took on a greater role. He took over the backup point guard role against Virginia Tech on Jan. 12 and averaged more than 10 minutes per game after that while Bolden averaged more than 30.

Bolden's insertion into the starting lineup was the first significant lineup change of the season. It was the first time since Dec. 20 (Florida State) and 22 (Kennesaw State) of 2009 that three freshmen had started a game for the Yellow Jackets (Derrick Favors, Brian Oliver, Mfon Udofia).

Tech Storylines

• This is the 99th season of basketball for Georgia Tech and its 35th season of competition in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Tech was a member of the Southern Conference for 11 years (1921-32), the Southeastern Conference for 32 years (1932-64), independent for 11 years (1964-75), a member of the Metro Conference for three years (1975-78), and independent for one more year (1978-79) before joining the ACC.

• Georgia Tech's primary goals are always to play solid team and one-on-one defense, win the rebounding battle and be efficient on offense. Brian Gregory prefers to fuel the Yellow Jackets' transition game with superior defensive rebounding rather than by playing the passing lanes and gambling for steals.

• Tech's returning players for 2013-14 combined for 84.6 percent of the Yellow Jackets' scoring in 2012-13, 88.3 percent of the rebounds and 80.1 percent of the minutes.

• Carter, Jr., and Georges-Hunt both were invited to training camp for the USA Basketball Under-19 team, which was to compete in the FIBA U19 World Championship in July. Georges-Hunt survived the first of two roster cuts but did not make the second, while Carter, Jr., who had trained with the U18 in the summer of 2012, did not make the first cut.

• Daniel Miller enters the 2013-14 season as the ACC's career blocked-shot leader among active players and 22nd all-time with 226. He is No. 3 on Tech's all-time list and is likely to eclipse the mark of 243 from John Salley, who is No. 2. The Tech record of 425 posted by Alvin Jones is probably out of reach.

• Only three Tech players were on the last Yellow Jacket team to play in Alexander Memorial Coliseum - rising seniors Kammeon Holsey, Daniel Miller and Jason Morris.

• Only two players remain on the Tech roster who were in the program the last time Tech played in the NCAA Tournament (2010) - Daniel Miller and Kammeon Holsey - and both red-shirted that season.

• Quinton Stephens is the first scholarship player on the Tech basketball roster from the Marist School in Atlanta since Matt Harpring, whose No. 15 is retired at Tech.

Homegrown Jackets

Georgia Tech's 2013-14 team features 14 players from the state of Georgia, unprecedented in the history of Yellow Jacket basketball. Tech has more players from its home state on its roster than any team on Division I college basketball, followed by Charlotte (13), Wisconsin-Milwaukee (13) and Purdue (12).

Of Tech's 13 scholarship players, 10 are from Georgia.

The Five-Year Plan

Georgia Tech has a rarity in present-day college basketball in Daniel Miller and Kammeon Holsey, two seniors in their fifth year in the program.

Miller and Holsey are the last members of a 2009 recruiting class that also included Derrick Favors, who spent one season at Tech before becoming an NBA lottery pick, Mfon Udofia, who completed his eligibility last season, Glen Rice, Jr., who played three seasons at Tech and is now a member of the Washington Wizards, and Brian Oliver, who played two seasons at Tech and transferred to Seton Hall.

They are the only two players on the Tech roster who were on the team the last time it went to the NCAA Tournament (both red-shirted that year), and along with Jason Morris, are the only team members to have played home games at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Both are from small towns in Georgia - Miller from Loganville and Holsey from Sparta - and have become good friends.

We're 18 and We Know What We Want

Georgia Tech has a roster of 18 players and more depth than the Yellow Jackets have enjoyed at any time since Gregory arrived on campus. Sixteen of those players will dress for every home game.

• Despite the loss of four scholarship players - guards Mfon Udofia, Brandon Reed and Pierre Jordan and forward Julian Royal - Tech rebuilt by signing 6-0 guard Travis Jorgenson and 6-9 forward Quinton Stephens in its freshman class, and added transfers Trae Golden, a 6-2 guard, and Robert Sampson, a 6-8 forward. Golden was declared eligible to play this season, while Sampson will be eligible next season.

• Tech also added depth in the backcourt with 6-1 Corey Heyward, a red-shirt freshman who sat out last season after twice tearing the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee. Tech expects to have 6-5 senior Jason Morris (Augusta, Ga.), who underwent surgery to repair a stress fracture in his left foot Oct. 14, back on the court this week.

• The Jackets have five non-scholarship players on the roster who form the scout team in practice and is dubbed the "Iron Five" by Coach Gregory. That unit includes forwards Brooks Doyle, a sophomore, and Aaron Peek, a junior, both 6-4 players who each saw action for Tech last year, a pair of sophomore guards in Colin Gurry and Ron Wamer, and 6-6 freshman forward Rand Rowland. All but Gurry (Canton, Conn.) and Rowland (Cleveland, Ga.) are from the Atlanta area.

Streaks of Note

• Daniel Miller has started 104 consecutive games, the team's longest streak and more than any active ACC player except Wake Forest's Travis McKie (105). He is the only Tech player to start every game the last three-plus seasons, and he has not missed a game in his Tech career.

• Tech has made at least one 3-point field goal in 269 straight games, dating back to an 0-for-5 effort against Duke on Feb. 23, 2005. The Jackets came close to breaking that streak twice in the 2011-12 season - Saint Joseph's (1-for-12) and Virginia (1-for-15) - and again this season against Delaware State, going 0-for-7 over the first 37 minutes of the game before hitting twice in the final three minutes.

Notable Career Milestones

• Head coach Brian Gregory won for the 200th time in his head coaching career when Tech defeated Presbyterian to open this season.

• Trae Golden surpassed the 1,000-point mark for his career. He scored 931 in three seasons at Tennessee and now has 1,070.

• Daniel Miller is 41 points shy of 800 for his career, while Kammeon Holsey needs 53 to reach the same plateau.

• Holsey surpassed 400 career rebounds against Dayton (has 442).

• Miller surpassed 600 career rebounds against Mississippi Valley State (has 650) and has moved into 18th place on Tech's all-time list. He needs four to reach 17th place (Ivano Newbill, 654, 1991-94).

• Miller holds third place in career blocked shots at Tech (226) and ranks 22nd on the ACC's all-time list.

• Marcus Georges-Hunt (474) needs 26 points to reach 500 for his career.

• Georges-Hunt surpassed 200 rebounds for his career (204) against Kennesaw State.

• Robert Carter, Jr., passed 400 career points against Illinois and 300 career rebounds against East Tennessee State.

• Jason Morris needs 10 points for 500 in his career.

200 Achieved Against Presbyterian

Georgia Tech head coach Brian Gregory earned the 200th victory of his head coaching career Nov. 8 when the Yellow Jackets downed Presbyterian 88-57 at McCamish Pavilion. The third-year Yellow Jacket skipper is 30-36 at Tech after posting a 172-94 mark in eight seasons as the head man at Dayton.

Gregory Receives Contract Extension

Brian Gregory received a one-year extension to his contract in November, extending the original six-year contract for Gregory through the 2017-18 season. Gregory also received an increase in his base salary and additional basketball and academic performance incentives.

Gregory began his Tech career following a six-year period in which the Yellow Jackets had just two winning seasons, and played the 2011-12 season off-campus as McCamish Pavilion was being built. But the team improved by five victories overall and by two in Atlantic Coast Conference play during the 2012-13 season. The Jackets made significant improvements statistically according to the NCAA rankings and won three ACC games on the road, including eventual ACC champion Miami, ranked No. 6 at the time.

Every senior on the Tech team has graduated during Gregory's time. The Yellow Jackets also have made significant strides in the NCAA's Academic Progress Report, moving from last to sixth in the ACC during his tenure.

Jorgenson Lost for Season with Knee Injury

Freshman guard Travis Jorgenson will miss the rest of the 2013-14 season after suffering a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee during Tech's Nov. 20 game against Dayton.

The 6-0 guard sustained the injury in the second half of the game, and an MRI test taken the next day revealed the tear. Surgery to repair the ligament was successfully performed on Dec. 12.

The Columbia, Mo., native had played in all four games off the bench, averaging 4.3 points and 2.5 assists in just under 20 minutes per game.

Games of November Remembered

Georgia Tech's opener against Presbyterian was significant because it was the earliest calendar date that Georgia Tech has ever played a regular-season basketball game. It fell one day earlier than last year's opener against Tulane, and Tech's season opener of the 2007-08 season against UNC Greensboro, which both fell on Nov. 9.

• The Yellow Jackets played eight games scheduled in the month of November, an all-time high. Tech previously played seven games in November in the 2011-12, 2010-11 and 2006-07 seasons.

• A check of Tech's all-time scores and accounting for the number of games it has played in November provides a glimpse into the gradual lengthening of the college basketball season over time. In three seasons under Gregory, Tech has averaged 6.9 November games. Tech averaged 4.9 in 11 seasons under Paul Hewitt, with a low of two in the 2002-03 season. Tech averaged 2.5 games in November in 19 seasons under Bobby Cremins, including NONE in the 1992-93 season, and 1.3 games in November in eight seasons under Dwane Morrison. Whack Hyder's 22 Tech teams played a TOTAL of four November games.

• Tech's first November game was played Nov. 30, 1956, also the first game ever played at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, and resulted in a 71-61 loss to Duke. The Jackets are 101-37 all-time in November, including an 13-6 mark under Gregory.

Making History

Georgia Tech has made a little bit of history during its first two-plus seasons under head coach Brian Gregory.

• The first came quickly, a 68-56 win over

TECH NOTEBOOK

Georgia in Athens on Dec. 7, 2011, the team's first victory in Athens in 35 years.

• With its 80-71 win at Georgia on Nov. 15, Tech has now defeated its in-state rival three consecutive years for the first time since winning three straight from 1992-94. The Jackets have also won back-to-back games in Athens for the first time since winning three straight there from 1959-61.

• For the first time since Roy Mundorff in 1946-47 and 1947-48, Gregory has won in his first three tries against state-rival Georgia.

• Tech won three ACC road games, the most for the Yellow Jackets since the 2007-08 season, when they went 4-4 on the road. Tech was 3-29 on the road in the four seasons in between.

• Put another way, Tech has won three of its last five ACC road games after winning three of the previous 36 dating back to the beginning of the 2008-09 season.

• One of those road wins was Tech's first-ever victory over Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, a 64-54 win last Feb. 9. That came after seven losses in Cassell Coliseum.

• Like his two predecessors, Brian Gregory captured his first career ACC victory on the road (82-71 over NC State on Jan. 11). Bobby Cremins defeated Maryland for his first, 45-43 on Dec. 23, 1981, while Paul Hewitt won at Virginia, 73-68, on Jan. 9, 2000.

• On March 6 of last season, Tech beat a top-10 team on the road (No. 6 Miami) for the first time since 2004.

Tech Signs Two in Class of 2014

Georgia Tech signed 6-2 guard Tadric Jackson and 6-10 Ben Lammers to letters of intent on the first day of the early signing period Nov. 13.

Jackson, a 6-2, 205-pounder from Tift County High School in Tifton, Ga., is a 4-star prospect ranked as high as 68th nationally in the class of 2014 (by ESPN.com) and is rated the top guard in the state by national recruiting analyst Justin Young on Hoopseen.com. Rated 14th nationally at his position, the left-handed Jackson averaged 15.4 points a game as a junior last season, which ranked 17th in class AAAAAA, and helped Tift County to a 26-5 record and a state ranking of No. 3. He plays for the Georgia Stars AAU team.

Lammers, a 6-10, 225-pounder, attends Alamo Heights High School in San Antonio, Texas. The 3-star prospect is rated the 10th-best overall prospect in the state of Texas according to Texashoops.com and the 19th-best center in the nation. An all-state performer each of the last two years, Lammers averaged 15 points, 10 rebounds and 4.5 blocks per game as a junior, helping Alamo Heights advance to the class AAAA regional finals and a 32-4 final record. Lammers, whose father played football at Texas A&M, played AAU ball for the South Texas Spurs.

ACC Schedule Notes for 2013-14

New Atlantic Coast Conference members Notre Dame and Pittsburgh will visit McCamish Pavilion this season as part of Georgia Tech's 18-game conference schedule, while Boston College, Clemson, Duke, Miami, North Carolina, Virginia and Virginia Tech are on the Yellow Jackets' home men's basketball schedule for the 2013-14 season.

• The Yellow Jackets have home-and-away series with Clemson and Notre Dame (Tech's permanent partners), as well as Duke and Boston College.

• Miami, North Carolina, Pittsburgh, Virginia and Virginia Tech come to Atlanta, while Tech has road trips to new member Syracuse, Florida State, Maryland, NC State and Wake Forest. (Wake Forest is no longer a permanent home-and-away partner for Tech.)

• Of the three new conference members for 2013-14, Tech has faced Notre Dame the most, winning six of eight meetings in the series that dates back to 1941. The most recent meeting was a 70-69 Tech victory in the 2007 Paradise Jam. Former Yellow Jacket player Rod Balanis is an assistant coach on Mike Brey's Fighting Irish staff.

• Tech is 5-0 all-time against Pitt, including a 111-92 victory over the Panthers in the most recent meeting on Dec. 28, 1989 at the Omni arena in Atlanta, a big win early for a Yellow Jacket team that would win the ACC Championship and reach the NCAA Final Four. Tech's "Lethal Weapon 3" combo of Kenny Anderson (32 points), Brian Oliver (28) and Dennis Scott (30) combined for 90 of Tech's 111 points.

• The series between Tech and Syracuse is even at 2-2. The Orange have won the last two meetings, including an 80-76 decision in the 2010 Legends Classic in Atlantic City. Syracuse also defeated Tech Dec. 21, 2002, 92-65, in the teams' last meeting at the Carrier Dome behind freshmen Carmelo Anthony (24 points) and Gerry McNamara (25 with 10 assists) and would go on to win the national championship that season.

Non-Conference Schedule Stiffens

With five games slated against major conference teams and two others against perennially strong mid-major opponents, Georgia Tech is facing a significantly more difficult non-conference schedule in its third season under head coach Brian Gregory.

• In the same season that former Big East powers Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and Syracuse join the ACC, the Yellow Jackets had Illinois and Dayton at home, and travel to Charlotte, Georgia and Vanderbilt. This is in addition to the Barclays Center Classic tournament over Thanksgiving weekend, in which Tech played Mississippi (an NCAA team), and St. John's (NIT).

• By the numbers, Tech is playing three non-conference games on the opponent's home court, as opposed to one last year (at Illinois in the Big Ten/ACC Challenge), and five non-conference games away from home altogether. Of the five non-conference games against the power five conference foes, four of those will be played away from home.

• Tech is facing five RPI top 100 teams (based on the final CBSSports.com rankings from 2012-13) among its 13 non-conference games, and has only three foes ranked beyond 300, as opposed to five last year. Including ACC opponents, Tech will face 16 teams that made the NCAA or NIT championships last season, as opposed to 14 on last year's schedule, and 17 RPI top 100 foes.

• The average RPI for Tech's non-conference

Tech's Accomplishments in 2012-13

• With its March 6 win at No. 6 Miami, Tech beat a top-25 team for the first time since March 12, 2010, a 69-64 win over No. 19 Maryland in the ACC Tournament. Tech beat a top-25 team on the road for the first time since Jan. 16 of that year, beating No. 12 North Carolina in the Smith Center, 73-71.

• Tech beat a team ranked in the top 10 for the first time since Jan. 9, 2010, a 71-67 home-court victory over Duke. Tech's last win over a top-10 team on the road also came against Duke, on March 3, 2004 in Cameron Indoor Stadium by a 76-68 score.

• For head coach Brian Gregory, it matched the highest-ranking for an opponent one of his teams has beaten. Dayton defeated No. 6 Pittsburgh, 80-55, on Dec. 29, 2007.

• Tech's 16 wins were its most since the 2009-10 season, when the Yellow Jackets went 23-13 (18-11 in the regular season, 7-9 in the ACC).

• Georgia Tech accomplished its first season sweep of an ACC opponent (Wake Forest) since the 2010-11 season. The opponent then was Wake Forest.

• Tech finished the season five games ahead of its mark from a year ago and surpassed its conference win total (4) from 2011-12.

• Tech improved its record in each month of this season over the corresponding month last season, except March.

• Tech secured a winning season in year two under Gregory. No Tech coach since Dwight Keith in 1945 had posted a winning record in his second year on the Flats.

• Tech finished its first season in McCamish Pavilion with an 11-6 record (3-6 ACC) and averaged 7,365 in attendance with four sellouts.

And the Children Shall Lead

Marcus Georges-Hunt and Robert Carter, Jr., became the first two freshmen to rank 1-2 on Georgia Tech's team in scoring since 2006-07, and the third freshman duo to accomplish that at Tech. Only other five teams in ACC history (two from Tech) have had freshmen rank 1-2 on their teams in scoring (see chart on page 5).

Georges-Hunt (10.8 ppg) was the Yellow Jackets' only player in double figures for the season, and Georges-Hunt was the only ACC freshman to lead his team in scoring.

Javaris Crittenton and Thaddeus Young, who each averaged 14.4 points during the 2006-07 season, were the last freshmen to finish 1-2 on the Tech scoring chart. Mark Price, who led the ACC in scoring at 20.3 points per game, and John Salley (11.5) also turned the trick in 1982-83.

Tech has had a freshman lead its team in scoring five times previously, first with Jim Wood (11.1) in 1973-74. That average was the lowest figure to lead a Yellow Jacket team in the modern era (since 1949-50) until this year.

Arts and Letters

Not only has Georgia Tech improved on the court since Gregory arrived, but has made big strides in the classroom as well. Beginning with Moe Miller and Lance Storrs in the summer after Gregory took the head coaching position at Tech, every senior in the program has graduated, including Derek Craig and Nick Foreman in 2012.

Last year's senior class included Mfon Udofia, who finished his business adminstration degree work in the summer, and Pierre Jordan, who completed his Masters degree requirements in building construction in the spring. Brandon Reed graduated in the summer with his management degree before transferring back to Arkansas State to play his final year of basketball.

Sophomores Chris Bolden and marcus Georges-Hunt made the Academic All-ACC team as freshmen, and the Yellow Jackets have had at least one player named to that team since it was instituted for the 2010-11 season.

Tech's men's basketball scored a perfect 2010-11 team single year Academic Progress Report score of 1000 in the 2010-11 APR Report, a first for the program, and posted a four-year average of 972, an all-time high, last spring.

Stability in the Lineup

Head coach Brian Gregory utilized seven different starting lineups in 2011-12. Two players - Kammeon Holsey and Daniel Miller - started every game.

In 2012-13, he went with essentially two different lineups, and three players - Carter, Jr., Miller and Udofia - started every game. Tech's lineup for 14 of the first 15 games was Mfon Udofia and Brandon Reed at the guards, Marcus Georges-Hunt and Robert Carter, Jr., at the forwards and Daniel Miller at center. Chris Bolden replaced Reed in game 16 at Duke and started 15 of the last 16 games.

This season, two lineups have been employed essentially. Carter, Jr., Georges-Hunt and Miller have started every game. Solomon Poole has started Tech's five games, and Bolden has started the other six. A disciplinary action kept Trae Golden out of the starting lineup for ETSU in favor of Corey Heyward.

Buzz Bytes

• Tech shot 50 percent or better from the floor seven times last season, four this season. Tech is 17-2 under Brian Gregory when shooting 50 percent.

• The Yellow Jackets are 23-9 overall under Brian Gregory when they record more assists than turnovers.

• With Daniel Miller jumping center, Tech has controlled the opening tip in 53 of 73 games since the beginning of the 2011-12 season.

• Tech is 9-6 in games decided by 10 or fewer points over the last two seasons. The Jackets were 3-11 in such games in 2011-12.

• The Yellow Jackets are 28-3 under Brian Gregory when leading at the 5-minute mark.

• Tech's rally from 12 points down against Illinois on Dec. 3 was the second-largest deficit Tech has overcome to win a game in Brian Gregory's two-plus seasons. The Jackets came back from 13 points down in the second half to win at No. 6 Miami last March, and erased a 13-point first-half deficit to beat VCU in Gregory's first season.

• Tech's 11-point lead against Virginia Tech on Jan. 12 was the biggest it has held in a game the Yellow Jackets lost under Gregory.

Case for Tech's Defense

• Tech ranked 33rd in the nation in adjusted defensive efficiency as calculated by Ken Pomeroy, allowing 91.6 points per 100 possessions. Miami (18), Virginia (20) and Duke (23) ranked ahead of Tech among ACC teams.

• Only eight opponents have shot 50 percent from the floor against Tech since Brian Gregory became head coach.

• Tech has held 30 teams (eight ACC teams) under 60 points since Brian Gregory arrived and allowed only 15 to score as many as 70.

• The Yellow Jackets have held 33 of 73 foes under 40 percent from the floor under Gregory (six this season), seven under 30 percent.

• Only six opponents have scored as many as 80 points, only one of those has reached 90, in Gregory's tenure.

• Tech gave up 62.6 points per game in 2011-12, which was the program's fifth lowest yield going back to the 1955-56 season, the first year statistics are available. Last season's yield was 62.4 ppg, which ranks fourth.

• Only one other Tech team (1984-85, 59.4 ppg) surrendered fewer points per game vs. the ACC than did Brian Gregory's first Tech team (65.5). Last year's yield of 67.1 ppg ranked fourth-lowest since the Jackets joined the ACC.

• Only three Tech teams since 1960 limited ACC teams to a lower field goal percentage than last year's team (40.3 pct.). Only four Tech teams in the ACC era have posted a better field goal percentage yield against the conference (43.2 pct. last year). Tech allowed ACC teams 42.5 percent last season, which became the third-best figure.

Eight Tech Alumni on NBA Rosters

Eight former Georgia Tech basketball stars were on NBA team rosters when the season opened, more than any team in the Atlantic Coast Conference except Duke (15) and North Carolina (14).

The newcomer in the Tech group is Glen Rice, Jr., who starred last season in the NBA's developmental league, was selected by Philadelphia in the second round of the NBA draft in June and traded to Washington, where he opened the season.

Two players began the season with new teams. Jarrett Jack, a 10-year NBA veteran who helped lead Golden State to the NBA playoffs a year ago, signed with Cleveland in the off-season. Anthony Morrow began his eighth season in the league as a member of the re-named New Orleans Pelicans.

Chris Bosh, who spent the first seven years of his NBA career in Toronto, began his fourth season in Miami looking for his third NBA title with the Heat. Thaddeus Young is in his seventh season as one of the leaders of the Philadelphia 76ers, while Will Bynum, a member of Tech's 2004 Final Four team, is in his sixth year in Detroit.

Iman Shumpert is being looked upon to fill a leadership role in his third season with the New York Knicks after his career was interrupted by a knee injury a year ago, and Derrick Favors recently agreed to a new contract with Utah, where he is emerging as a star in his sixth NBA season.

Welcome to The Hank

Georgia Tech played the 2012-13 season in a building that was, for all intents and purposes, brand new. The only physical elements of McCamish Pavilion that remain from the venerable Alexander Memorial Coliseum are the roof, which has been re-covered, and the 32 steel ribs that support it.

The capacity of McCamish Pavilion is 8,600, including 1,665 seats in the new balcony level and 6,935 seats in the lower seating bowl. There are no suites, but there is a premium club area that seats 500. Alexander Memorial Coliseum seated 9,191 spectators in its final configuration.

The most striking features of McCamish Pavilion are its grand entrance, which fronts 10th and Fowler Streets, the ability for patrons to view the court from the main concourse nearly all the way around, and the theatrical lighting system, which bathes the court in bright light while leaving the seating areas dark, modeled after the Staples Center in Los Angeles and Madison Square Garden in New York.

Tech played 55 seasons in Alexander Memorial Coliseum, compiling a record of 556-194 (.741). Miami was the last team to play Tech in Alexander Memorial Coliseum, a game Tech won, and was the first ACC team to play in McCamish Pavilion on Jan. 5, which Miami won. For the 2011-12 season, Tech played its home games at Philips Arena and the Arena at Gwinnett.

They Said it...

• "GT post Robert Carter is quietly becoming a double double machine. He has excellent hands and feel. Great player to build around." - Dec. 17 tweet from ESPN analyst and former college coach Seth Greenberg

• "I remember what Carter, Jr. looked like last year in Champaign and you can tell he's really worked on his body. He looks great. Miller is older, a red-shirt guy, good size. I really have a lot of respect for Kammeon Holsey. I love the motor he plays with. I enjoy watching him on film because I think he plays hard all the time. It looks like he'd be fun to coach. They have great size and experience and weight and girth down there." - Illinois head coach John Groce

• "The thing is he does that sometimes so effortlessly that you don't realize how hard he is playing. As a coach, you always want more from guys, you do, but he just got 15 and 15. Do you know how hard that is to do in a game? That's hard – in only 30 minutes. He had a rebound every two minutes. That's off the charts." - Head coach Brian Gregory on Robert Carter's performance against Kennesaw State

• "I thought the place (McCamish Pavilion) at the end there was electric. This place can be a heck of a place for a game. We've got to do our part, but when it gets going, it's pretty fun to be in.

TECH NOTEBOOK

LAST MEETING

Georgia Tech 63, Vanderbilt 51

Dec. 6, 2008 • Nashville, Tenn.

Freshman Iman Shumpert scored a career-high 18 points and Alade Aminu added 16 points, 12 in the second half and Georgia Tech went on to a 63-51 win over Vanderbilt on Saturday.

Georgia Tech (5-1), after winning its first four games, lost 85-83 to Penn State in the ACC-Big Ten Challenge on Wednesday night.

Gani Lawal, who had a career-high 34 points in the loss to Penn State, scored only eight on Saturday to go along with 12 rebounds. He had only three points at the half on 1-of-3 shooting and made only 1-of-5 free throws but had seven rebounds.

Vanderbilt (5-3), which was coming off a 74-55 loss to Illinois-Chicago on Wednesday night, was led by A.J. Ogilvy with 15 points. Jeffery Taylor added 11.

• "If there's a better post defender in the ACC, we'd like to see him. Miller regularly neutralizes the opponent's best interior scorer and has given Brian Gregory stability in the pivot as he attempts to rebuild the Yellow Jackets program," - Jon Rothstein of CBSSports.com

• "I've had freshman before where I had to tour campus to find somebody that they could guard. Travis has been well coached. Quinton has been well coached as well. They both played in high school/prep school programs that were coached by college-type coaches. Same thing ... both those guys were coached in summer ball by former college coaches. That's helped them." - Head coach Brian Gregory on the readiness of freshmen Travis Jorgenson and Quinton Stephens

• "I wouldn't be honest if I didn't say I want our seniors to go out with some post-season experience." - Head coach Brian Gregory on goals for this season

• "I think their size inside is a difficult match-up problem for a lot of people, and I think their younger players on the perimeter, Bolden and Marcus Georges-Hunt are good players." - Clemson head coach Brad Brownell after last season's Tiger win in Atlanta

• "That's something Tech's guys do very well – they normally get inside position and can score. They're very big, they're very physical, but so are we and so are all the ACC teams. This is a league that prides itself on being very big." - Miami coach Jim Larranaga

• "Their size is impressive, they stayed really patient, they really make you guard them inside. They're looking for inside presence. They're constantly looking for their post guys, they're taking advantage of you helping, and when you help inside, they had some looks. But inside they battle you and they test you. Because they're big and strong inside - they kind of know their identity." - Rice coach Ben Braun

Tech's NCAA Tournament History

Georgia Tech played in the NCAA Tournament five times in 11 seasons under head coach Paul Hewitt and has played in the event 16 times in its history. Fifteen of those appearances have occurred from 1985 to the present.

Tech has a record of 23-16 in NCAA Tournament play, highlighted by its 2004 trip to the NCAA title game as well as a Final Four berth in 1990. The Yellow Jackets have reached the NCAA Sweet 16 seven times (1960, 1985, 1986, 1990, 1992, 1996, 2004).

The 2004 and 2005 appearances were the Yellow Jackets' first back-to-back appearances since Bobby Cremins led the Institute to the Big Dance nine straight years from 1985-93.

Georgia Tech has won at least one game in 11 of its 16 NCAA Tournament appearances.

Tech's ACC Tournament History

Georgia Tech has played in 34 ACC Tournaments, and has a 24-31 all-time record in the event. The Yellow Jackets have won three championships, in 1985 (Atlanta), 1990 (Charlotte) and 1993 (Charlotte).

Tech has been a runner-up four times (1986, 1996, 2005, 2010). The 1986, 1996 and 2010 runs to the finals occurred in Greensboro.

Tech is 6-4 in ACC Tournament games played in Atlanta, going 4-2 in three tournaments at the Omni, including the 1985 title, and 2-2 in two tournaments at the Georgia Dome.

Tech was 0-2 in the ACC Tournament under coach Dwane Morrison, 15-16 under Bobby Cremins (including all three titles) and 9-11 under Paul Hewitt (runner-up in 2005 and 2010).

The Jackets are 3-5 when opening the tournament on Thursday.

BRIAN GREGORY

Head Coach - 3rd Season at Tech

Brian Gregory, who led the University of Dayton to 97 victories over his last four years there and worked under Tom Izzo at Michigan State when the Spartans won the 2000 NCAA championship, was named Georgia Tech's head basketball coach on March 28, 2011.

Gregory engineered a winning season and a five-win improvement for the Yellow Jackets in 2012-13, and secured his 200th career victory on Nov. 8 against Presbyterian.

Gregory is the 13th head coach in Yellow Jacket history. Gregory coached eight seasons at Dayton where he compiled a record of 172-94 and participated in the NCAA Tournament or NIT five times. His 2003-04 and 2008-09 teams earned NCAA Tournament berths, and the Flyers captured the 2010 NIT crown after beating North Carolina in the championship game.

The 1990 Oakland (Mich.) University graduate won 150 games faster (seven seasons) than any coach in Dayton history. Over the last four seasons combined, his teams went 13-4 against BCS-level teams.

Gregory clearly put an emphasis on academics during his tenure at Dayton and has continued that at Tech. Entering the 2013-14 season, every senior who has played for Gregory has graduated. All seven seniors who played on the 2010 NIT title team graduated that spring.

Prior to becoming the head coach at Dayton, Gregory spent the second of two highly-successful stints at Michigan State, where he was an assistant coach for two years before being promoted to associate head coach under Izzo for the 2001-02 and 2002-03 seasons. During those four years, the Spartans won one NCAA championship (2000), made three Elite Eight appearances, two Final Fours and claimed two Big Ten Conference championships.

A native of Mount Prospect, Ill., Gregory became a full-time assistant coach at Michigan State in 1992 and remained there when Izzo replaced Jud Heathcote as head coach. Gregory left to work one season under Stan Joplin at Toledo in 1996, then returned to the Big Ten where he worked as an assistant coach under Kevin O'Neill at Northwestern for two seasons.
