The Fred Russell Press Box

Given by The Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hendrix Foundation

Vanderbilt Athletics dedicated the press box at Hawkins Field on July 25, 2001, in honor of longtime Nashville sportswriter Fred Russell. During his nearly seven decades of sports writing at the Nashville Banner (1929-98), Russell became known as an authority on the local, regional and national scene. Beyond the countless awards he garnered, Russell was an inspiration to almost every young sportswriter across the country during the 1940s, 1950s, and 1960s, including Red Smith, Henry McLemore and Vanderbilt baseball's own Grantland Rice.

A letter-winning pitcher for the Commodores in 1927, Russell was recognized by Vanderbilt Athletics in 1982 with the dedication of the football press box at Vanderbilt Stadium.

Former Vanderbilt Athletics Director and former Commissioner of the Southeastern Conference Roy Kramer says of Russell, "He brought a very special dignity and class to the game that unfortunately is often lost today. Fred believes in the game and the people who play it, and always came to lift up our hearts after the game rather than second-guess every move."

The fully equipped Fred Russell press box features booths for radio and television broadcasts, seating for more than a dozen media members, a lounge area, multiple phone and ethernet lines, wireless internet capability and a hospitality suite.

HAWKINS FIELD

A crowd of 1,547 baseball fans helped usher in a new era in Commodore baseball, Saturday, April 27, 2002, with the official dedication of Hawkins Field. Hundreds of baseball alumni, family and friends returned to Nashville to catch a glimpse of the new ball park and witness the pregame ceremony. Vanderbilt's 2002 co-captains Karl Nonemaker and Sean Luellwitz, along with former head coach Roy Mewbourne, former Director of Athletics Todd Turner and Commodore baseball alums Charlie Hawkins and Jimmy Miller took part in the ribbon-cutting ceremony. Several key contributors to the stadium project also threw out first pitches, including Charles Hawkins, Judy Turner, Jeff Love and Bob Latimer.

On that special night the Vanderbilt baseball community also took time to remember Mark Hindy, a 1995 graduate and former Commodore pitcher who died at the World Trade Center in the tragic events of September 11, 2001. Hindy, a successful bond trader at Cantor Fitzgerald, was honored with a moment of cheer prior to the start of Vanderbilt's contest with Mississippi State. Mark's father, George Hindy, was on hand for the remembrance. He gave the Vanderbilt Athletic Department the Hindy family's metal cross, made from the World Trade Center ruins, that was distributed to the families of all the victims. That cross is displayed in the McGugin Center lobby located across the street from Hawkins Field.

Remembering Mark Hindy

Mark Hindy, a left-handed pitcher from Brooklyn, N.Y., walked-on and lettered at Vanderbilt from 1992-95. He appeared in 49 games – 45 as a junior and senior – and went 3-3 with a 5.37 earned run average. In 1995, he struck out 45 in 39.1 innings of work as he helped the Commodores reach the SEC Tournament.

Hindy continued to give back to the Vanderbilt baseball program after he graduated. He bought a personalized seat license at Hawkins Field which has his name engraved on the chairback. Hindy's seat is located in section E, row 5, seat 18.

Shortly after his death in the World Trade Center attacks, The Mark Hindy Charitable Foundation was created to honor Mark's life. The purpose of this foundation is to raise and distribute money to help children and children's problems in our society today; whether those issues are diseases that affect children, societal issues, and any other issues that may be brought to the foundation's attention deemed compatible with the overall objective of "HELPING CHILDREN BE CHILDREN." This, as they would say about Mark, is "SO MARK."

Mark's father, George, gave Vanderbilt the Hindy family's metal cross, made from the World Trade Center ruins, that was distributed to the families of all the victims.

HAWKINS FIELD

Hawkins Field serves as the home of the Vanderbilt Commodores and with recently completed facilities it stands as one of the top college baseball parks in the country. Now in its seventh season of existence, Hawkins Field greets all fans with chairback seats close to the field of play, a 35-foot wall in left field that promises unique opportunities for excitement and a first-rate field that prevents bad hops and promotes dazzling defensive gems from the infielders and outfielders alike.

With a brick and rod-iron fence design, Hawkins Field features a classic baseball park atmosphere coupled with a modern design that includes more than 2,000 chairback seats and a state-of-the-art press box. Still nestled along side Vanderbilt Stadium and Memorial Gymnasium on the west end of campus, the new ballpark was constructed as the Commodores' first baseball-only facility in school history. It was built near the exact location of McGugin Field, which served as Vanderbilt baseball's home field for 76 years and part-time football practice field.

A 4.5 million dollar project to add on to Hawkins Field was completed in the Spring of 2006. Phase Two saw the addition of over 475 new stadium seats along the baselines.

Phase Three included the construction of a two-story complex along the third baseline, including locker rooms, a weight room, coaches' offices and a Hall of Fame. It was completed at the end of the 2006 season and now houses the team. The team also has a new pitcher's area enclosed in the football stadium next door, as well as a new indoor batting cage inside Memorial Gym.

New for 2008, 1,000 temporary bleacher seats will be added to rightfield at the start of Southeastern Conference play. More permanent outfield seating is scheduled to be installed for the 2009 campaign with seating from the rightfield foul pole to the "Green Monster" in left.

The complex is named for the Charles Hawkins Family. Charles Hawkins III, the stadium's namesake, was a long-time contributor to the Vanderbilt community, who graciously donated more than $2 million to the stadium project. Sadly, he passed away June 16, 2004, after his beloved Commodores ended one of their most successful seasons ever. A successful real estate developer, Hawkins played baseball and football for the Commodores from 1952-1954 and became the first Vanderbilt pitcher to earn All-Southeastern Conference honors. His father, Charles Hawkins II, lettered in both baseball and football at Vanderbilt in the mid-1920s.
