ANDERBILT SPRING NOTES

THE DEREK MASON ERA BEGINS IN NASHVILLE

As defensive coordinator at Stanford from 2010-13, Derek Mason helped guide the Cardinal to a 45-8 overall record and four straight BCS postseason games, including appearances in the last two Rose Bowls.

Named as the 28th head coach in Vanderbilt gridiron history on Jan. 17, Mason expects to bring similar experiences to a Commodore program that is in the midst of unprecedented modern-day success.

Mason will welcome about 75 prospects, including 43 letterwinners from the 2013 squad, to his first spring practice on campus March 11.

"I want to say to Vanderbilt Nation, we are going to do two things here. We will educate and graduate young men who are going to change the world," Mason told an introductory audience Jan. 18. "On the football side - SEC East title, here we come. Make no bones about it, because if you can't talk about it, you can't be about it."

Mason, 44, replaces James Franklin, who went 24-15 over three years on the Vanderbilt campus. He also guided the Commodores to three straight bowls.

Mason guickly went to work after accepting the Vanderbilt post. In less than three weeks, Mason made the most of National Signing Day, securing signatures from 22 prep standouts from across the nation. Since then, Mason has attracted a stellar coaching staff, and worked diligently to build relationships within the Vanderbilt and Nashville communities.

At Stanford, Mason coordinated an attacking Cardinal defense that ranked among the nation's best in an array of statistical categories, from scoring defense and total defense to quarterback sacks and tackles for loss.

DAVID KOTULSKI

MASON TIES TO COORDINATORS DATES TO PLAYING DAYS, EARLY COACHING ROLES

Vanderbilt coordinators Karl Dorrell and David Kotulski played influential roles in the early coaching development of Derek Mason.

The relationship between Mason and Dorrell dates to the early 1990s when both were at Northern Arizona University - Mason as a cornerback practicing daily against receivers coached by Dorrell.

Much of Mason's expertise on the 3-4 defensive scheme came in 1999-2000 when Kotulski hired him to coach defensive backs at Bucknell University. More than a decade later, Mason repaid Kotulski by bringing him to Palo Alto to mentor Stanford inside linebackers.

Mason also has long ties with new offensive assistants Gerry Gdowski and Keven Lightner. Ten years ago, Mason, Gdowski and Lightner were members of the offensive staff at New Mexico State, then joined Frank Solich's Ohio University staff for the 2005-06 seasons.

MAXIE JOINS VANDERBILT OFF TITANS' TENURE

Defensive secondary coach Brett Maxie joined Mason's staff without leaving Nashville. Maxie, who played 13 years as a safety in the NFL, spent the last two years mentoring Tennessee Titans' defensive backs. After spending 16 years in the NFL coaching ranks, this marks Maxie's first season as a collegiate coach.

SQUAD RANKED IN FINAL 2013 POLLS BY COACHES & ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the second straight year, the 2013 'Dores were ranked among the Top 25 teams in the coaches' and sportswriters' ballots.

After the 9-4 season, the Commodores received 180 votes in the coaches' final ballot and 117 votes in the last sportswriters' poll. Vanderbilt ended the year ranked No. 23 in the USA Today/Coaches Poll and No. 24 in the Associated Press.

In 2012, Vanderbilt was ranked No. 20 by coaches and No. 23 by the AP.

Q&A WITH COACH MASON

MASON: "OPEN COMPETITION AT EVERY POSITION"

Head Coach Derek Mason conducted a lengthy interview with Tennessean beat reporter Jeff Lockridge 10 days before the start of spring drills on campus. Segments of the interview with Lockridge follow.

Is this spring more about implementation or evaluation for you and your staff?

Mason: The focus is definitely about implementation, seeing what their process is. Evaluation is always taking its course. We started that as soon as we stepped in here in terms of who we are, really just trying to put the pieces together and figure out where they fit, what our depth looks like, what bodies we need to move around. It will definitely be about the evaluation process, too, as we see what we can do offensively, defensively and on special teams.

Did you come here with an offensive playbook, or did offensive coordinator Karl Dorrell come here with one? How will it work with the plays and where they come from?

Mason: It's easy to say what you're going to play defensively. But it's harder to say what you're going to be offensively because offenses are so geared toward what your quarterback can do and how good you are up front.

Will we be similar to Stanford? Yeah. But it will also be different because I don't think we can just line up and bully people because our personnel doesn't say that across the board. Our offense will be multiple. It will be flexible. It will be in the vein of what's considered West Coast, with a twist ... with a Vanderbilt twist.

Anytime you go to a new staff or bring in a new staff, is verbiage the biggest hurdle for players and coaches?

Mason: Verbiage is always the biggest hurdle to get over. Even within the same systems, there are so many versions of the West Coast and what it looks like – or spread and what it looks like. Everybody wants to make it their own, so they add their own words to it and it grows this way or that way. Obviously, I started out as an offensive guy and I was steeped in the West Coast terminology. But as it's grown over the years and I moved away from it (to the defensive side).

What are your thoughts on two position groups as the spring starts: wide receiver (losses of Jordan Matthews and Jonathan Krause) and secondary (four graduated starters)? Mason: I come from the philosophy of putting young people in stressful situations so that they become reactive and learn how to play the game fast. From a receivers' standpoint, what you're looking for is who can digest the information – take it from the class to the grass. Anytime, you have youth, generally there's talent. You're looking to see where those guys' skill sets are. Some guys are going to be asked to take a bigger role, and they will.

When you flip over to defensive backs, I'm confident in what Brett Maxie (secondary coach) is going to pull out of those guys. We want safeties that cover like corners, but hit like safeties. We want corners that can move on a platform and mirror the great skill in this conference, but who can also tackle.

There are some guys back there who have a little moxie. I'll tell you this: I played with young secondaries when I was at Stanford. As long as they play together and understand how to communicate and play top-down and keep us out of harm's way, we'll be as good as anybody else in our conference.

Will you wait until after spring to come up with a depth chart?

Mason: It will be after spring. It won't even be close. We're going to let guys play themselves into positions. It's about open competition at every position. I don't care if you were a starter a year ago. This spring will be about solidifying our depth and seeing where we need to plug in our freshmen when they hit our campus this summer.

During Spring Practice, do you expect much tackling and taking guys to the ground, or do you back off that except for the scrimmages? Mason: We have a tempo structure in practice. There is what we call 'whiz,' which is palms up and a way to protect one another while still playing fast. It's more of a pro-style mentality. There's 'thud,' which is wrap and drive and let a guy go. And then there's 'live.' When we go live, those will be situational. You try to keep the live contact to scrimmages or situational ball – short yardage, goal line – those periods are live because you need to have live reps to simulate what that looks like.

Another big emphasis in spring training is making sure we understand any new rules and how we're tackling in terms of the targeting rule: eyes up and making sure we're running our feet to, through and beyond contact. Just making sure we make the game safe, but we play the game hard from a defensive perspective. Offensively, it's trying to dial back with the penalties. We haven't been a heavily penalized team, but we want to make sure we're about the things that allow us not to beat ourselves.

Do you plan to split your time evenly among the position groups in practice, or will you spend more time with the defense?

Mason: I'm split up. I trust our coaches. That's why you hire a good staff and try to put together a good staff and make sure those guys are competent. I want to get a chance to know our (players). I need to get around our guys and see where they're at and be able to give them an accurate assessment, because when we conclude, we'll have spring evaluations. We'll sit down with the strength and conditioning coach, the academic liaison, their position coach and the coordinator, and just talk about where they are so we can give them a big picture of what they look like.

You have to dig a little deeper as they look to transition into the summer in terms of where they're at, what they need to do and where they need to be going into fall camp. That will be what we do the first week after (spring practice), so we can give them structure heading into the summer.

How do you look to develop leadership? Will leaders rise to the top through the spring and summer, and are you that concerned about it? Mason: Leaders aren't born. Leaders are made, especially in football. Some players have a strong propensity towards it, but what you're trying to look for is guys who lead by what they do – not by what they say. The speaking part is great, but right now we have to assume they need to be led and then let our leaders slowly start to show themselves. Sometimes leaders try to lead when what they really need to be doing is falling in line. There's a time to lead and there's a time to follow. If you're ever going to lead, you have to be willing to follow.

We've got to make sure guys are all invested in the same process. Then as we get through (spring practice), those guys will start to show themselves. From one year to the next it changes. You have guys in mind. But it's always the same way. Those guys that you think are going to be the best leaders, it doesn't always turn out that way, because leadership is definitely about what you do and not what you say.

VANDERBILT

The corps features four returning starters: senior center Joe Townsend, junior guards Jake Bernstein and Spencer Pulley, and sophomore tackle Andrew Jelks. Also back is senior Andrew Bridges, who has 17 career starts at tackle in his Commodore career.

Collectively, the five returnees have combined for 82 career starts, third highest total in the Southeastern Conference behind only South Carolina (90) and Texas A&M (87).

This spring, new position coach Keven Lightner must find a replacement for Wesley Johnson, the All-SEC left tackle who finished his career by setting team records with 51 career and consecutive starts. Either Jelks, who earned nine starts in 2013 at right tackle, or Bridges, a 17-game career starter also at right tackle, are the most likely candidates to protect the blindside of Vanderbilt quarterbacks.

With Townsend, Bernstein and Pulley, the Commodores are veteran interior blockers who have experienced plenty of success. The trio has combined for 56 career starts at center and guard.

The corps also feature quality depth, with four sophomores –Blake Fromang (OT), Barrett Gouger (OG), Will Holden (OG-OT) and Kevin McCoy (OG) – getting valuable snaps in 2013.

'DORES ARE 16-4 IN LAST 20 GAMES; TIES FOR SEC'S SECOND BEST RECORD

Since October, 2012, the Commodores sport one of the Southeastern Conference's best records.

Vanderbilt owns a 16-4 overall record in its last 20 games dating back to a victory over Auburn on Oct. 20, 2012.

Vanderbilt's successful stretch includes a five-game win streak in 2013 capped by a victory in the BBVA Compass Bowl and a seven-game win streak to end the 2012 regular season.

Among SEC teams, the Commodores' record during its last 20 games is tied for second with South Carolina. The only conference member with a better record over the span is 2012 BCS national champion Alabama (18-2).

More impressively, the Commodores' margin of victory in the 16 wins has been 18.1 points.

Twelve of Vanderbilt's victories have come against members of BCS-affiliated conferences: Auburn, Kentucky (twice), Ole Miss, Tennessee (twice), Georgia and Florida from the SEC, Wake Forest (twice) and N.C. State from the ACC, and Houston from the American Athletic Conference.

Vanderbilt is also 17-5 in its last 22 games.

TWELVE STARTERS RETURNING FROM COMMODORES' 2013 9-4 SQUAD

Though Derek Mason's staff will open up competition for every starting position, the Commodores' spring roster includes a dozen players that started at least six games in the team's 9-4 2013 campaign.

The list includes four players that started every game last year: Darreon Herring (Jr., LB), Spencer Pulley (Jr., OG), Joe Townsend (Sr., center) and Kyle Woestmann (Sr., DE/OLB).

Besides Pulley and Townsend, other offensive players that enjoyed at least six starts last year were Jake Bernstein (Jr., OG), Jordan Cunningham (So., WR), Andrew Jelks (So., OT), Steven Scheu (Jr., TE) and Jerron Seymour (Jr., RB).

In addition to Herring and Woestmann, Adam Butler (So., DT), Jake Sealand (Jr., LB) and Vince Taylor (Sr., DT) also started at least six games on defense.

RB CORPS FEATURES SEYMOUR, KIMBROW

Vanderbilt's returning offensive backfield includes two of the team's top rushers from a year ago, juniors Jerron Seymour and Brian Kimbrow.

In 2013, Seymour was superb as a first-year starter. He matched the team record of 14 rushing touchdowns set in 2011 by current St. Louis Rams' starter Zac Stacy while producing 716 rushing yards (No. 2 all-time by Vanderbilt sophomore) and 14 touchdowns.

Kimbrow closed 2013 on a high note with 75 rushing yards and a score in the team's BBVA Compass Bowl win. He ended the season with 341 yards and three TDs on just 81 carries.

Junior Derek King and redshirt freshman Ralph Webb are expected to get plenty of spring repetitions. Former linebacker Kellen Williams is expected to work at fullback during spring drills.

VANDERBILT SPRING NOTES

QUARTERBACK COMPETITION LOOMS AS COMMODORES OPEN DRILLS

Two young Commodores, sophomore Patton Robinette and redshirt freshman Johnny McCrary, are expected to compete this spring for the team's quarterback vacancy left by the graduation of Austyn Carta-Samuels.

Robinette and McCrary also enter spring drills facing the task of mastering a new offensive scheme from a new position coach. Former UCLA head coach Karl Dorrell moves into the dual role of offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach.

Robinette has the most collegiate experience, having started three games and playing a key role in a fourth contest late in the 2013 season. After guiding the 'Dores to 17 second half points in an upset over Georgia, Robinette also started in Vanderbilt's November win at Florida and the BBVA Compass Bowl victory over Houston. He completed 52.3 percent of his passes and accounted for 11 touchdowns.

Though McCrary redshirted last year, he displayed a strong arm in an impressive Black and Gold Spring Game last April.

Junior Josh Grady is a third quarterback prospect on the Vanderbilt spring roster, but he is expected to take few snaps this spring as he returns from injury.

Additional Offensive Battles Expected...

While the Quarterback Watch will command plenty of attention, the Commodores need to identify potential new starters at several other offensive positions, including wide receiver, fullback and left tackle.

At wide receiver, the Commodores must replace one of the SEC's most potent receiving duos in Jordan Matthews and Jonathan Krause. The graduated pair accounted for 154 catches, 2,191 receiving yards and 10 touchdowns in 2013. Sophomore Jordan Cunningham is the most experienced returnee.

Graduation also took Wesley Johnson, an All-SEC performer and three-year starter at left tackle, and primary fullback Fitz Lassing.

LEADING VANDERBILT ALL-SEC CANDIDATES

CALEB AZUBIKE Jr., OLB Still relatively new to the sport, Azubike is an impact player on the field, contributing eight quarterback sacks and 14 tackles for loss.

ADAM BUTLER So., DL Playing defensive tackle for the first year in 2013, Butler contributed 25 tackles, including six stops resulting in losses.

DARREON HERRING Jr., LB Herring became the team's most productive linebacker in 2013. He is Vanderbilt's active leader in solo stops, total tackles and defensed passes.

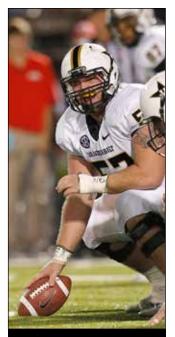

ANDREW JELKS So., OT As starting RT, Jelks earned Freshman All-America and SEC All-Freshman honors in 2013. Jelks could replace Wesley Johnson at left tackle this year.

JERRON SEYMOUR Jr., RB The compact, yet physical Seymour rushed for 716 yards and tied school record with 14 rushing touchdowns as a first-year starter in 2013.

DARRIUS SIMS So., Return Specialist As a true freshman in 2013, Sims ranked among the SEC leaders with a 22.8-yard kickoff return average.

JOE TOWNSEND Sr., Center Townsend should be a leader on the Commodore offensive interior in 2014. The senior has 20-game consecutive start streak entering senior season.

KYLE WOESTMANN Sr., OLB Blessed with a tremendous motor, Woestmann has amassed 12 QB sacks and 15 tackles for loss entering his final year.

TOP DEFENDERS COULD BE SEEING NEW ROLES Three of Vanderbilt's top sack specialists – Caleb Azubike (above), Kyle Woestmann and Stephen Weatherly – could see aggressive new roles in the team's 3-4 base defense.

TEAM'S TOP RETURNING SACK SPECIALISTS MIGHT ATTACK QBS FROM NEW POSITION

Potential scheme changes to the Vanderbilt defense could have Vanderbilt's leading three sack specialists from a year ago attacking opposing quarterbacks from a new position this fall.

Derek Mason's highly regarded defense at Stanford offered opposing offenses multiple looks out of a 3-4 base formation.

If Mason's defensive staff introduces the scheme this spring, several Commodores are expected to switch from defensive ends to attacking outside linebackers.

The team's returning sack leader from a year ago – senior Kyle Woestmann, junior Caleb Azubike and sophomore Stephen Weatherly – could move to outside linebackers in the new scheme. With Woestmann and Weatherly limited, other former defensive ends such as junior Jimmy Stewart and redshirt freshmen Landon Stokes and Jonathan Wynn should get repetitions at the OLB position during spring drills.

Stanford's outside linebackers were regarded as aggressive playmakers, frequently causing havoc for Cardinal opponents.

REPLACING COMMODORE SECONDARY

Starting positions in the Vanderbilt secondary are up for grabs this spring after the graduation losses of both starting cornerbacks and safeties.

Three experienced sophomores – Paris Head, Torren McGaster and Darrius Sims – will compete with freshmen Tre Bell and Taurean Ferguson at cornerback.

At safety, the Commodores return two juniors with solid experience, Jahmel McIntosh and Andrew Williamson, along with redshirt freshmen Jalen Banks and Ryan White.

HERRING RETURNS AT LINEBACKER Darreon Herring returns for his junior season coming off one of the most productive seasons by any Southeastern Conference linebacker.

DARREON HERRING: ONE OF LEAGUE'S TOP RETURNING LINEBACKERS

Darreon Herring returns for his junior season after establishing himself as one of the SEC's top productive and versatile linebackers.

Herring, one of four Vanderbilt returnees who started every game last year, ranks among the SEC's leading returnees in several defensive statistical categories.

As a first-year starter in 2013, Herring finished the season with career highs in solo tackles (47), total tackles (84) and defensed passes (11). He tops all active Commodore defenders in the three defensive categories.

MAKING TEAM HISTORY: THREE STRAIGHT BOWLS; CONSECUTIVE NINE-WIN SEASONS

The Commodores look to continue to build on a recent trend of accomplishing milestones unique to the Vanderbilt program, such as making three straight bowl appearances and posting consecutive nine-win season totals.

Bowl/Opponent

Prior to last year, neither of those feats had been accomplished in the history of Vanderbilt football.

Remarkably, before consecutive 9-4 campaigns in 2012-13, Vanderbilt realized only two nine-win seasons in its 124-year history. Both of those came a century ago in the Dan McGugin Era (9-0, 1904; 9-1, 1915).

The Commodores enter 2014 as one of six SEC teams searching for a fourth consecutive postseason appearance.

SIGNATURE WINS FROM 2013 CAMPAIGN

Patton Robinette provided one of the top plays in 2013, faking a jump pass and going 5 yards for the game-deciding touchdowns in the closing seconds at Tennessee.

SIGNATURE WINS IN 2013: UT, FLORIDA, GEORGIA & HOUSTON

For the first time in Vanderbilt history, the Commodores defeated SEC East rivals Georgia, Florida and Tennessee in the same season in 2013.

The signature wins started during a furious, double-digit Commodore comeback at home against Georgia, Vanderbilt's first against the Bulldogs in Nashville since 1991. Three weeks later, the Commodores went on the road to claim their first victory in Gainesville since the World War II era. Two weeks after the Florida win, Vanderbilt went to Knoxville and won in dramatic fashion on a touchdown in the final minute.

Here's more on each of the signature wins:

GEORGIA, Oct. 19 31-27, in Nashville

★ The victory over No. 15 Georgia marked Vanderbilt's first against a ranked opponent since the Commodores defeated BCS No. 24 Boston College 16-14 in the 2008 Gaylord Hotels Music City Bowl.

★ The win was Vanderbilt's first in Nashville against Georgia since a 27-25 victory in 1991.

★ Sparked by reserve ΩB Patton Robinette, 'Dore rally from 27-14 deficit after three quarters to outscore the Bulldogs 17-0 in final stanza.

y on but in ter s the amp . The ators se ds and

TENNESSEE, Nov. 23 14-10, in Knoxville

★ Following a 41-18 triumph in Nashville last year, the 14-10 win in Knoxville marked Vanderbilt's first back-to-back victories over the Vols since the 1925-26 seasons.

★ It was Vanderbilt's first victory in Neyland Stadium since Jay Cutler engineered a game-winning, fourth quarter drive in 2005.

★ It marked the 'Dores' fifth road win in SEC play in the last two years.

HOUSTON, Jan. 4 (BBVA Compass Bowl) 41-24, in Birmingham

★ For the first time in team history, the Commodores made a postseason appearance for the third consecutive year, facing Houston from the American Athletic Conference in the 7th Annual BBVA Compass Bowl.

★ The Commodores' 41-24 victory over the Cougars marked another program first – victories in consecutive bowl games.

 \bigstar Vanderbilt's 41-point offensive explosion represents the team's highest point total in a bowl game.

★ The victory gives Vanderbilt its ninth win for the second straight year. The win total also ties a team single-season record.

13

FLORIDA, Nov. 9 34-17, in Gainesville

★ It marked Vanderbilt's first victory on the Florida campus since a 7-0 shutout in 1945. That game, held just months after World War II ended, was Vanderbilt's first visit to Gainesville. Until the win, the Commodores were 0-19-1 in the Swamp since the 1945 win.

★ The victory also ended years of Commodore frustration in the series. The win was Vanderbilt's first over the Gators since 1988.

★ The win was sparked by a defense that limited Florida to 39 rushing yards and forced four Gator turnovers.

NEW INDOOR PRACTICE FACILITY Darreon Herring returns for his junior season coming off one of the most productive seasons by any Southeastern Conference linebacker.

NEW INDOOR FACILITY BENEFITING SQUAD THIS WINTER AND SPRING

The $31 million indoor facility and multipurpose center that opened last November near McGugin Athletics Center and Vanderbilt's outdoor practice facilities virtually assures that Derek Mason will not lose any spring practices to inclement weather.

Opening of the on-campus venue couldn't come at a better time, considering the difficult winter witnessed across the Southeast. Mason's squad has used the complex on several occasions this winter for organized conditioning.

BANKINS: LONE COACHING HOLDOVER

Charles Bankins, responsible for some of the most impressive Vanderbilt special teams in program history, is the lone holdover on Derek Mason's Commodore staff.

Bankins will serve as Mason's running backs coach in 2014 after working with Commodore tight ends from 2011-13.

Under Bankins, two Commodore specialists – placekicker Carey Spear and punter Richard Kent – have earned All-SEC honors. Spear also served as a three-time co-captain and set several team records for field goals and points scored by a kicker.

VANDY PRO DAY SCHEDULE MARCH 21

Up to 13 seniors from the Commodores' 9-4 BBVA Compass Bowl champion squad are preparing to showcase their talents to National Football League scouts and personnel evaluators during Vanderbilt's Pro Day on Friday, March 21.

With all four Commodore invited to the recent NFL Scouting Combine planning to participate in the on-campus activity, scouts representing virtually every NFL team could be in attendance.

The four Commodore participants at the Combine – Andre Hal (CB), Wesley Johnson (OL), Kenny Ladler (safety) and WR Jordan Matthews (WR) – could be joined at Pro Day by Karl Butler (LB), Chase Garnham (LB), Steven Clarke (CB), Jonathan Krause (WR), Javon Marshall (safety), Walker May (DE), Jared Morse (DT), Carey Spear (PK) and Wesley Tate (RB).

The on-campus Pro Day features the same tests as the Combine, including official height and weight measurements, 225-lb. bench press repetitions, 40-yard dash, standing broad jump, vertical jump and position drills.

HEAD COACH DEREK MASON

Mason speaking to assembled audience January 17 after being introduced as the 28th head coach in Vanderbilt football history.

Derek Mason, regarded as one of the nation's top coordinators, is the new head coach for the Vanderbilt Commodores

Mason, who served as associate head coach, defensive coordinator and Willie Shaw Director of Defense for the 2013 Pacific 12 champion Stanford Cardinal, was introduced as the Commodores' 28th head coach by Vanderbilt Chancellor Nicholas S. Zeppos and Director of Athletics David Williams II at a press conference Jan. 18 at McGugin Athletics Center.

"Derek Mason is the leader we trust to continue the challenging but exciting work that has elevated the Vanderbilt football program to unprecedented heights," Zeppos said. "He embodies integrity, strategic thinking and a demonstrated commitment to success. He understands the important role that athletics plays in the life of a vibrant university, and that outstanding scholarly pursuits and top-notch sports are integral parts of the Vanderbilt experience. We are thrilled to welcome him to the Vanderbilt community."

"We are very pleased with our search. It was evident that the football world is aware of the tremendous progress our program has made and that was reflected by the deep pool of talent that showed an interest in our position," Williams said. "We talked to outside experts and did our own evaluations and the person that always seemed to be in the spotlight was the same person that was at the top of our list and that was Derek Mason.

"We are so excited to be introducing him as our head football coach because we are confident he can build upon our successes on and off the field and that he will take us to the next level. Derek will be an asset to our university," Williams added.

Mason becomes head coach of a Commodore program that has enjoyed consecutive nine-win seasons and postseason Top 25 rankings for the first time in team history. The 2013 Vanderbilt squad finished 9-4, capped by a 41-24 victory over Houston in the BBVA Compass Bowl.

"I am so excited to be at Vanderbilt," Mason said. "This university combines the best of what's good about college athletics and academics. We expect to be competitive and look forward to competing for an SEC East crown."

Since arriving on campus, Mason quickly put together an outstanding signing class of 22 prospects, hired a highly qualified coaching staff, helped oversee winter conditioning of the Commodores' returning players, and been visible at an array of Nashville social and sporting events.

DEREK MASON: VANDERBILT HEAD COACH

COACHED IN FOUR CONSECUTIVE BCS BOWLS

Since being hired by then-Stanford Head Coach Jim Harbaugh prior to 2010 season, Mason has been a key leader in arguably the greatest era of Cardinal football. In the last four years, Stanford has played in four straight BCS bowl games: the 2011 Orange Bowl, 2012 Tostitos Fiesta Bowl, 2013 Rose Bowl and 2014 Rose Bowl. Alabama is the only other team that can make the same claim. During the four-year period, Stanford owns an overall record of 45-8.

COACHED BACK-TO-BACK PAC-12 CHAMPION TEAMS TO ROSE BOWL APPEARANCES

Mason's last two years at Stanford with Head Coach David Shaw concluded with appearances in the Rose Bowl. The consecutive appearances in Pasadena, by way of earning Pac-12 titles, ranks as a modern-day first for the Cardinal program.

2012 BROYLES AWARD FINALIST

Mason's contributions to Stanford's 12-1 overall campaign that was capped by a Rose Bowl victory over Wisconsin is acknowledged by national panel that selects him as a finalist for the Broyles Award, given annually to the nation's top assistant coach.

REGARDED AMONG THE NATION'S BRIGHTEST DEFENSIVE COACHES

Mason has changed the perception of Stanford Cardinal defense during his time on campus. The 3-4 scheme Mason has helped develop at Stanford is now viewed among the most aggressive and innovative in college football.

DEREK MASON

Defensive coordinator at Stanford since 2011, Mason has helped take the Cardinal to Rose Bowl appearances in 2013 and 2014, and consecutive Pac-12 titles with one of the nation's top defensive units. Under Mason, the Cardinal ranked among the NCAA national Top 15 in defensive efficiency for three consecutive years.

While facing seven ranked opponents and one of the nation's toughest schedules in 2013, Mason's defense ranked third in the NCAA in rushing defense (89.4 yards), 10th in scoring defense (19.0 points) and 16th in total offense (343.1 yards).

The Cardinal was one of only five teams last year to allow less than 100 rushing yards per game. The team was also among the best nationally in producing stops for negative yardage, ranking fifth with 44 sacks and seventh with 109 tackles for loss. The defense was also superb on third downs, holding opponents to a 32 percent conversion rate.

Off the field, the Cardinal ranks among the nation's best with a football graduation rate of 95 percent. Stanford University was ranked No. 5 by U.S. News & World Report among national universities in 2013.
