

VANDERBILT

THE UNIVERSITY

Vanderbilt, founded 136 years ago by a $1 million gift by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, is one of the nation's leading institutions of higher learning, a mid-size, private comprehensive research university that emphasizes undergraduate learning and living experiences.

Since its inception, the university has taken great pride in the quality of education – and the quality of life – its students enjoy. Each of the four undergraduate colleges – College of Arts and Science, School of Engineering, Blair School of Music and Peabody College – attracts students with varying goals and dreams. Whichever school they enroll in, students receive a valuable and versatile education and are an integral part of the University's community of scholars.

Members of the 6,350-member undergraduate student body, including Vanderbilt student-athletes, are outstanding academic achievers and active participants in Vanderbilt's 350-plus extracurricular organizations. They are also part of the most diversity ever at Vanderbilt as the university continues to attract students from many ethnic, cultural, socio-economic, geographic and religious backgrounds.

At Vanderbilt, professors know their students' names and take an interest in students' ideas. Recognized globally for their research and scholarship prowess, faculty members believe in the importance of balancing professional pursuits with classroom instruction, and they value their relationships with students. Some of the world's leading scholars teach at Vanderbilt, helping students develop an academic program that meets individual objectives, and they encourage students to enhance primary areas of study by choosing among hundreds of elective courses, course-related internships, off-campus study and accelerated degree programs.

Through the Honor Code, student-directed service opportunities and campus programs, Vanderbilt students also consider moral and ethical issues and put the many facets of their lives into a personal framework of values.

At Vanderbilt, the big material resources are in place – beautiful grounds and buildings, well-equipped classrooms and labs, various options for housing and ample athletic and recreational facilities. Off campus, undergraduates have all the urban conveniences offered by one of America's foremost cities, Nashville. The city, located on the banks of Cumberland River, possesses a rare blend of big-city amenities and small-town charm with a collection of cultural activities unmatched in the region.

Though located within walking distance of downtown activities, the quality of Vanderbilt life is reflected in much smaller, less public ways – running into friends while walking on campus, researching papers or grabbing a late-night snack with friends, choosing between a public policy lecture or athletic event, or having dinner at a professor's home.

The University's student body has been coeducational since 1875. The original campus, which opened on 75 acres, expanded to 330 acres in 1979 when Vanderbilt merged with neighboring George Peabody College for Teachers.

Vanderbilt offers four undergraduate colleges: the College of Arts and Science; the Peabody College; the School of Engineering; and the Blair School of Music.

THE COMMONS

On-Campus Living At Its Best

FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS ENJOY RARE COLLEGIATE LIVING EXPERIENCE

Last September, a national television audience enjoyed an up-close look at The Commons when ESPN used the venue to broadcast their first College GameDay show from the campus.

Besides discovering that The Commons makes an ideal set location for ESPN, the nation also learned that the modern, six-acre complex is one of the truly unique on-campus collegiate living environments.

Built in the southeast quadrant of the Vanderbilt campus, The Commons includes 10 residence halls, or "houses," spacious study and social areas, and the showpiece Commons Center, a modern dining and activity hub, all located on the Peabody campus. It opened to first-year students in 2008.

Vanderbilt officials believe The Commons provides new students with a truly special living/learning experience. Bringing scholars, leaders, teachers and students together to create a vibrant intellectual community is at the heart of The Commons' mission.

The Commons Center also features the Eatery, the place to dine with friends and study with classmates. At the Commons Cafe, students, faculty and staff can develop friendships while listening to Vanderbilt and Nashville musicians.

NOTABLE ALUMNI

Vanderbilt alumni are having a positive impact on the nation.

Many of Vanderbilt's 115,000 alumni are leaders in their chosen fields, including business, engineering, science and medicine, public service, education, arts and entertainment, and sports.

From the halls of Congress, Lamar Alexander continues to be one of the nation's most effective leaders as Tennessee's senior senator. Suspense enthusiasts gobble up James Patterson's newest thriller. Economist and Nobel Peace Prize winner Muhammad Yunus is taking his community-based Grameen Bank concept across the globe from Bangladesh. And in business and technology, Dr. Thomas Frist Jr., Cal Turner Jr., John Rich, Bill Samuels Jr., and John Ingram are just a few of many alums regarded as leaders of industry and commerce.

In sports, our alums are more abundant than ever: former

Buster Olney

Vanderbilt student newspaper ace Buster Olney is a leading baseball analyst for ESPN; Arthur Hancock is a leading breeder of Kentucky Derby-caliber thoroughbreds; former No. 1 pick David Price is one of many promising Major League Baseball talents with Commodore ties; and quarterback Jay Cutler is the most prominent of 14 former Commodores playing in the National Football League.

CHANCELLOR ZEPPPOS

Just days after being named Vanderbilt's chancellor, Nicholas S. Zeppos paid a visit to McGugin Athletic Center to watch Head Coach Bobby Johnson put the Commodores through a two-hour preseason drill.

Last winter, Johnson was able to return the favor, visiting Zeppos' campus office in Kirkland Hall with his own gift of appreciation. There he presented the chancellor with a personalized Gaylord Hotels Music City Bowl championship ring.

The long-time Vanderbilt educator and administrator has been a vocal supporter of the Commodore student athletics program. Zeppos has given his endorsement to an athletics capital improvement plan expected to surpass $50 million in the coming years. Several of the upgrades are directed at Johnson's Commodore football program.

Zeppos served in an increasingly prominent role during his ascension to the chancellorship since being hired by Vanderbilt as an assistant professor of law in 1987.

A distinguished legal scholar, teacher and executive, Zeppos served from 2002 to February 2008 as Vanderbilt's chief academic officer, overseeing the university's undergraduate, graduate and professional education programs and research in liberal arts and sciences, engineering, music, education, business, law, and divinity. As provost and vice chancellor, he chaired Vanderbilt's budgeting and capital planning council, as well as oversaw the dean of students and dean of admissions.

Zeppos has led a number of important initiatives at Vanderbilt, including the planning process for The Commons, a landmark transformation of the first-year experience; the Strategic Academic Planning Group; innovative efforts in undergraduate admissions and financial aid; and the development of new programs in Jewish studies, law and economics, and genetics, among others. He also has led the university's Shape the Future fund-raising campaign, which exceeded its $1.25 billion goal two years ahead of schedule and set a new target of $1.75 billion by 2010.

Zeppos was recognized with five teaching awards at the law school before serving as an associate dean, associate provost, and provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs. He also served as interim chancellor for eight months prior to being formally appointed as Vanderbilt's eighth chancellor on March 1, 2008.

In the Nashville community, Zeppos serves on the boards of the Nashville Area Chamber of Commerce, the Nashville Alliance for Public Education and is a member of the United Way Campaign Cabinet.

From 1982 to 1987, Zeppos practiced law in Washington, D.C., at the United States Department of Justice and at Wilmer, Cutler & Pickering, where he specialized in appellate litigation involving complex regulatory, statutory and constitutional matters.

The Milwaukee, Wis., native is a 1979 magna cum laude graduate of the University of Wisconsin Law School, where he served as editor in chief of the Wisconsin Law Review and was selected as the outstanding graduate of his class. He studied history during his undergraduate years at the university, where he was a 1976 Phi Beta Kappa graduate.

He is married to Lydia Ann Howarth, a graduate of the University of Chicago and Lawrence University, who is a writer and editor. They have two sons, Benjamin and Nicholas.

VICE CHANCELLOR WILLIAMS

In the aftermath of Vanderbilt's Gaylord Hotels Music City Bowl victory on New Year's Eve, few Commodores enjoyed the celebration and athletic accomplishment more than David Williams II.

On gameday, Williams is a keen follower from the sidelines, offering encouraging words and support to Vanderbilt coaches, student-athletes and fans. Off the field, Williams is an influential administrator serving as Vice Chancellor for University Affairs and Athletics.

In the last six years, Williams has guided Vanderbilt Student Athletics into a bold new era, one characterized by successes on and off the field of competition.

Since 2003, Williams has directed an initiative to more fully integrate Commodore athletics into the total Vanderbilt student life experience. With the support of current chancellor Nicholas Zeppos and former Chancellor Gordon Gee, the university's senior management team and Vanderbilt Board of Trust, Williams' efforts have been successful in creating opportunities for student-athletes to participate in programs across the Vanderbilt landscape.

Today, Williams' efforts have placed the Vanderbilt program among the nation's most innovative, offering a streamlined organization. Since sweeping changes were initiated in September 2003, Williams has firmly placed his stamp on the program. He has overseen the recruitment and hiring of seven outstanding head coaches. Williams also has addressed facility upgrades with an effort announced in early 2008 that to date has resulted in the refurbishing of Vanderbilt Stadium, expansion of Hawkins Field and renovation in Memorial Gym.

Under Williams, Vanderbilt Athletics have blossomed. Since 2006-07, at least eight sports have participated in postseason action each year. Eight Commodore athletes have been selected in the first round of their respective sports in the last four years. Off the field, student-athletes' collective GPA has reached its highest level in more than a decade.

Athletics is but a small part of Williams' influential Vanderbilt role. Williams also serves as General Counsel directing a staff of 14 attorneys, Secretary of Vanderbilt and its nationally recognized Medical Center, the Office of Risk Management, the University's Compliance and Conflict of Interest functions, and the operations of the University's Board of Trust.

Williams' campus participation also includes a tenured full professorship at the School of Law, lecturing on Tax Law, Sports Law and Education Law. He has taught a course on Law and Higher Education at Peabody College, and from time to time, courses in the undergraduate curriculum.

Williams has reached outside of the Vanderbilt community, having served a term helping set national policy regarding collegiate athletics on the NCAA Academics/Eligibility/Compliance Cabinet. He presently serves as a member of the NCAA Infraction Appeals Committee.

Williams was named Vice Chancellor, General Counsel and Secretary of Vanderbilt in 2000. His role moved toward administration of Vanderbilt student affairs and athletics in 2002.

Williams came to Vanderbilt after serving in numerous administrative roles at Ohio State University over a 14-year period. When he accepted the Vanderbilt role, Williams was Vice President of Student and Urban/Community Affairs and Professor of Law at Ohio State.

A native of Detroit, Mich., Williams received a Bachelor of Science in Social Science and Master of Arts in Education from Northern Michigan University where he was a member of the track team. He also earned a Master of Business Administration and a Doctor of Jurisprudence from the University of Detroit, and an LL.M. in taxation from New York University.

Before entering law school, Williams spent 10 years as a middle school teacher and coach in Detroit public schools.

Williams is active in the Nashville area community, serving as an executive member and director with several organizations. He is treasurer and finance committee chair of the Nashville Symphony Board of Directors, and is past chair of the United Way of Metropolitan Nashville. Some of Williams' other board memberships include the Nashville Area Chamber of Commerce, Nashville Sports Council, Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame, Nashville Public Television, Adventure Science Center, 100 Black Men of Middle Tennessee, the Nashville Rotary and Special Olympics Tennessee.

Williams also supports youth athletic programs in the Nashville community.

Professionally, Williams is currently serving his second three-year term as a member of the Nashville branch of the Atlanta Federal Reserve Board. He is an active member of the American Corporate Counsel Association, the National Association of College and University Attorneys and the American Bar Association. He is a member of the Continuing Legal Education committee of both the Nashville Bar Association and the NACUA. As a member of ABA's Section of Business Law, Williams has served as a member of the Corporate Counsel Committee. He held terms on two prestigious legal committees – the ABA Standing Committee on Public Education and the ABA Section on Legal Education and Admissions Standards Review Committee.

Williams also is a member of the American Law Institute, an arbitrator for FINRA, the American Arbitration Association, and a past member of the Harry Phillips Inn of Court. He has served on a number of ABA Accreditation site visits of law schools and has completed a term on the Membership Review Committee of the American Association of Law Schools. Williams has written, lectured and participated in many seminars on topics of tax law, sports law, law and education, and legal history. Williams was recently elected to a three-year term on the board of directors for the National Association for Colleges and University Attorneys. Nashville Mayor Karl Dean has appointed Williams to the city's new "Green Ribbon" Commission.

Williams has taught at the law schools of the University of Detroit, Capital University, the Ohio State University and Vanderbilt, and directed the Ohio State University Law Program in Oxford, England in 1992 and 1995. He was elected outstanding law professor at both the University of Detroit and Ohio State.

Williams and his wife, Gail, have two children: Samantha, who is a varsity swimmer and rising sophomore at Brown University, and Nicholas, who is a ninth grader at University School of Nashville and competes in cross country, basketball, track and soccer. His wife serves as the Associate Director of Community Relations at Vanderbilt, and is chair of the Metro Transit Authority (MTA) board of directors.

Williams shares a lighter moment with Vanderbilt student-athletes prior to commencement ceremonies.

Vice Chancellor Williams welcomes Perry Wallace into the inaugural Vanderbilt Sports Hall of Fame class.
