GAME NOTES

OPENING TIP: Tennessee State women's basketball continues its challenging nonconference slate this Sunday, making the short trip to West End to face Vanderbilt at noon inside Memorial Gymnasium. The Lady Tigers enter the matchup coming off an 82-76 victory over North Alabama, their highest-scoring performance of the season and a strong indication of the team's continued growth under head coach Candice Dupree.

TSU has shown clear strides during the opening stretch of the season, highlighted by improved defensive pressure, more consistent rebounding, and the emergence of multiple double-figure scoring threats. With three players now averaging over 12 points per game, the Lady Tigers look to carry that momentum into their second matchup against an SEC opponent.

SERIES HISTORY: Sunday marks the fifth all-time meeting between Tennessee State and Vanderbilt. The Commodores leads the series 16-2. While the Lady Tigers have recorded occasional wins, including narrow victories in the late 1970s and early 1980s, the Commodores have largely controlled the series with multiple decisive wins, including 91-47 and 98-33 triumphs, showcasing their sustained success over the years.

BASKETBALL COACHING EXPERIENCE

2022-24
Player Development
San Antonio Spurs, NBA // San Antonio, Texas

2024-Present
Head Coach
Tennessee State (NCAA DI) // Nashville, Tenn.

Tennessee State University Director of Athletics Dr. Mikki Allen appointed Candice Dupree, a seven-time WNBA All-Star and former assistant coach with the San Antonio Spurs, as the 13th head coach in Lady Tiger basketball history. Dupree enters her second season at the helm in 2025–26 after leading TSU to a 10–21 record in her debut campaign.

A 16-year veteran of the Women's National Basketball Association, Dupree took over the program following two seasons on the Spurs' staff. During her time in San Antonio, she played a key role in developing one of the NBA's youngest rosters, working closely with talents such as 2023 No. 1 overall pick and NBA Rookie of the Year Victor Wembanyama, Jeremy Sochan, and Devin Vassell.

Following her retirement from the WNBA in 2021, Dupree joined the NBA Coaching Development Program, where she honed her skills in scouting, film analysis, and player evaluation. Her coaching journey began at the NBA Draft Combine, where she led a team of prospects, before serving as an assistant guest coach for the Spurs' 2022 Summer League squad. Two months later, she was named a player development coach on Gregg Popovich's staff, becoming only the second former WNBA player—after Becky Hammon—to coach under the legendary NBA coach.

Before transitioning to coaching, Dupree enjoyed a decorated WNBA career after being selected sixth overall by the Chicago Sky in the 2006 draft. Over 16 seasons and 494 games, she averaged 14.4 points and 6.4 rebounds per game, earning seven All-Star nods and All-Rookie Team honors. Dupree ranks third all-time in made field goals (2,842), fifth in points (6,895), fifth in games played, and seventh in rebounds (3,149) in league history.

She captured her first WNBA Championship with the Phoenix Mercury in 2014, contributing 24 points and six assists in the title-clinching game of a 3–0 sweep over Chicago. That season, Dupree helped guide a record-breaking Mercury team featuring Diana Taurasi and Brittney Griner to a 29–5 regular-season mark. Dupree also set multiple franchise records, including 10 double-doubles in 2011 and a then-team record of 19 rebounds on Sept. 3, 2011.

Beyond the WNBA, Dupree won a Hungarian League Championship in 2019 and captured gold medals with Team USA at the 2004 World University Games and the 2010 and 2014 FIBA World Cups.

A standout collegiate player at Temple University (2002–06) under current South Carolina head coach Dawn Staley, Dupree helped the Owls to their most successful era in program history. Temple won three conference titles and appeared in the national rankings for 27 straight weeks, including a school-record 25 consecutive wins. Dupree was a two-time Atlantic 10 Player of the Year, a Third Team All-American, and one of only two players in program history to have her number retired.

Dupree ranks among Temple's all-time greats, sitting second in field goal percentage (51.4%), sixth in scoring (1,698 points), fifth in rebounds (968), and tied for second in blocked shots (218). She was inducted into the Temple Athletics Hall of Fame in 2016.

Now in her second season leading the Lady Tigers, Dupree continues to instill a professional standard rooted in discipline, development, and competitiveness—principles that have defined her career from the WNBA to the sidelines of Tennessee State.
